Overview

Robert is a business litigator and white-collar criminal defense counsel for companies and individuals being investigated and prosecuted in New Jersey.

His cases involve high-stakes disputes, requiring skillful navigation to protect business operations and individual freedoms. A former federal and state prosecutor, Robert served as an Assistant U.S. Attorney and Special Counsel to the U.S. Attorney for the District of New Jersey, where he led a violent-crime task force and prosecuted complex federal cases. That experience in addition to serving as an Assistant Prosecutor in Bergen County gives him a first-hand understanding of how prosecutors and law enforcement agencies evaluate evidence and make charging decisions. It also provides him with a unique perspective to challenge proofs and expose weaknesses in prosecutors' cases.

Today, Robert applies his experience and perspective to defend businesses and individuals, including licensed professionals facing criminal charges, government scrutiny, and regulatory exposure. His practice spans Litigation and White Collar and Criminal Defense.

Litigation

Robert represents both businesses and individuals in commercial disputes, civil rights actions, and complex criminal defense matters in federal and state courts. His work spans contract and shareholder litigation, appellate practice, and high-stakes criminal cases.
