Overview

Rebecca Frino devotes her practice exclusively to family law matters, including alimony, equitable distribution, child custody, pre-nuptial agreements and domestic violence issues.

Rebecca graduated from Seton Hall School of Law in 2011, after receiving her B.S. in Neuroscience from the University of Minnesota Twin Cities. While attending Seton Hall, Rebecca participated in the Center for Social Justice Civil Litigation Clinic, where she represented clients in landlord-tenant and education litigation matters. Rebecca was also a member of the Seton Hall Interscholastic Moot Court Board, and competed in competitions across the country on constitutional law, healthcare law, and juvenile law issues.

After graduating law school, Rebecca served as the Judicial Law Clerk to the Honorable Thomas J. Critchley of the Chancery Division, Family Part of Morris County.
